To my fellow citizens of New Carrollton:

Recently our country has seen gut wrenching social upheaval. We have seen vivid videos of two police shootings of citizens, and we have seen five police officers killed and 6 others wounded in a planned attack.

We as a community are hurting and we must begin the process of healing before we can move forward.

How do we heal?

To me, we can begin the healing process by looking at ourselves, taking stock of who we are, and recognizing the good and making a commitment to correct or change the bad. We have to understand that no one is perfect, we are not all the same and that we should not hold people to a standard of thinking and behavior that only we expect. We have to recognize our own biases before we chastise others. We have to communicate with each other, through communication we can begin to understand ourselves and others better. We have to change, we have to consciously be willing to adapt to new ideas, new ways of doing things and different ways to live our lives. We must be accepting of others. This world is changing rapidly, it's more diverse, and complicated, and we must change with it or this anger and hatred born from the fear of change will just go on and on. We must constantly be educating ourselves and we must verify the veracity of what we read, see, or hear in order be able to separate the truth from opinion and outright lies. We must become more involved, in our community and in our political process. There are serious life and death issues facing each one of us every day and petty bickering among our elected officials should not stop them from providing their constituents with effective responsible government whose mission is to support and guide us.

The New Carrollton Police Department began using body cameras in 2013 because we wanted to show our community that we are accountable to them and ourselves. We are constantly evaluating our performance and trying new ways to be more effective and responsive to you, the people we serve. We strive to protect our citizens and stop criminal activity. We deal with all persons we come into contact with empathy and respect. We are not perfect, we make mistakes but please be patient, we constantly work to learn from those mistakes, and we are constantly making changes to be responsive to our communities needs and maintain open communication with everyone.

I would like to remind residents to be cautious when driving around the city. Schools are back in session, and school buses are on and off dropping and picking up kids from the various bus stops. Please obey the stop signs display by school buses. The safety of our children is a priority.

In observance of Labor Day, On Monday, September 5, 2016, all administrative offices of the City will be closed. For any emergency dial 911 or non-emergency call 301-352-1200.

Mayor, Andrew C. Hanko has suspended Bulk Collection on Wednesday, September 21, 2016, due to employee training.

Public Works Activity June through August, 2016.

- The Department of Public Works has completed two (2) rounds of sidewalk work to eliminate tripping-hazards throughout the City. We are now working on assembling a list of other sidewalks that are in need of attention.
- The crosswalk located by Beckett Field, at Westbrook and 85th Avenue has been completed, and in service.
- The Streets Department are constantly repainting lines throughout the City.
- The Public Works Department's new stump-grinder is in operation and showing great results throughout the City. The time to grind a large stump has been improved by more than half the time.
- In the past, residents were having problems when calling the Department of Public Works, the issue was due to an old phone and cable system. On August 2016, a new phone system was installed. This new phone system should eliminate the call problems we have been experiencing in the past few months.
- Residents questioned the lack of colorful flowers through the City. The main reason for the condition of the flowers this past season, was due to the hail storms. As the flowers were being planted, hail destroyed a large number of trays waiting to be installed as well as a number of trays that were already in place. The Parks Department always strives to make the City as beautiful as possible, and steps have been taken to ensure the malls return to their full glory next season.
- Beckett Field has been reopened after reseeding. The bare spots have been fixed and an over seeding will be done in the fall, which will not require the field to be closed again.
